June 4, 2016

Presented by WELLS FARGO

Q. You played enough competitive golf to not let a hole like No. 7 mess up your round. You just played right through it.

MIGUEL ANGEL JIMENEZ: Well, is a hole No. 7, hit a driver. (Indiscernible) with the bunker there and I just, just a little tiny, tiny. I have 90 yards, hit kind of heavy and go to the bunker but it's on the downslope. And then (indiscernible) missed the putt and bogeyed that by a foot after making birdie, birdie, no? And then bogeyed the par 5, also missed my driver on the right and then tried to get it (indiscernible) and tried to make a (indiscernible) from the rough with a 5-wood there, jump to a three, and then bogey, no? But after these two holes I played very well all day long, the shots, the putts fall in the bottom. It was a good round, yeah.

Q. Now you've played the course a couple times, do you feel a little more acclimated to it, get a better feel for it?

MIGUEL ANGEL JIMENEZ: No, I feel nice on the golf course, feel good. This is a golf course demands very straight from the tee because if you are in the rough, the ball, no make a spin on the ball. You need to be in the fairways to (indiscernible.)
