

PHIL MICKELSON (-3)

Q. Well, just your impressions of the entire weekend?

PHIL MICKELSON: I enjoyed my time here. The people were terrific and I love playing old-school Donald Ross courses. We don't get a chance to do it often on Tour because we're trying to make courses longer and harder. I just loved the golf course. I don't care how many under wins. Last year it might have been 23 under or so and this year it might be 18, 19, but to play an old-school gem like this is a real treat, and the people were terrific.

Q. When you look at who was up at the top of the leaderboard, some of those guys, who are you pulling for this week?

PHIL MICKELSON: I don't know. I'm so far removed, they haven't even teed off yet. I've got to do a better job so that I can sleep in a little bit later.

Q. And finally, I know it's been a whirlwind week for you. Have you had time to reflect at all on your time in Detroit?

PHIL MICKELSON: I enjoyed it, I enjoyed my time. I didn't play as well as I wanted to, but I actually had a good ball-striking week and had some good positives even though I didn't score, I didn't putt great. But I really enjoyed the people, I enjoyed the golf course a lot.

Q. I had a question about your -- it seems like more and more you taking on to social media and kind of having more of a voice and controlling things a little bit more. How much of that was an active decision, just your use of Twitter and how you're able to put your thoughts out into the world maybe a little bit more than ever before?

PHIL MICKELSON: I never understood how impactful social media can be, not the way guys like Bubba Watson and Rickie Fowler and guys that have been doing it a long time, but I've always used it as like entertainment, trying to put out funny little clips here or there. When some stuff happened this week, it was nice to have a voice.

Q. And I feel like everyone in the profession realizes when you send a Tweet and it's, oh, man, it's going to go viral for the right reasons or the wrong reasons, how much do you actually weigh into that, because you're firing them off pretty frequently nowadays?

PHIL MICKELSON: I don't know. I haven't thought about it.
