

Q. How would you guys assess your round?

HARRIS ENGLISH: Alternate shot's always tough. Kuch missed a couple holes not putting and you give him a six- or seven-footer, it's tough. Having a round with no bogeys is always good. We played some solid golf, it's just one of those days we didn't get a whole lot of putts to fall, but it happens. I'm happy with 6 under. We're right in the thick of it and looking forward to tomorrow playing best ball and see if we can get after it.

Q. Do you agree with his assessment.

MATT KUCHAR: Yeah, good steady golf. Never were we in trouble. It was just I think in years past we've had some really good success where I think I've been hitting some wedges really close and we've seen a lot more putts go in. This year I felt like I kept hitting wedges to that interesting 12-foot range where you just can't count on those going in. Then I think I missed maybe the easiest putt in competition I've ever missed. Never fun when that happens and never fun when it's alternate shot. It's one thing when you've got to swallow it yourself, but when you've got a partner counting on you, it's doubly painful.

Q. Did you just rush it or try to slam dunk it?

MATT KUCHAR: I think a little just, what would you call it, nonchalant'd it, just kind of didn't focus like normal. It was just a three-footer uphill and that was odd. I've been so pleased with my putting and part of golf, happens to everybody.

HARRIS ENGLISH: You made some good ones today.

MATT KUCHAR: Made a couple good ones. It's part of golf.

Q. What's your guys' mindset not only with the format tomorrow but how you're playing going into tomorrow?

HARRIS ENGLISH: Yeah, I think we're playing great. The key to best ball, Matt has always told me this, is to have two balls in play and two balls putting for birdie. The more times we can do that, that second guy can be aggressive. And I feel like we're both playing great golf where we're both giving ourselves chances on every hole and if we can keep that going, I like our chances.

MATT KUCHAR: Yeah, it looks like the strongest teams have kind of put themselves on top of the leaderboard and I feel like we're in the mix and it will be an exciting day tomorrow, for sure.
