
Q. Cameron, nice closing 66. How would you assess the round?

CAMERON YOUNG: I think I gave myself every chance to shoot something better than that and just didn't quite do it. I think I played really well knowing that I had to do something special to have a chance to win and almost did, but just didn't quite make the putts kind of in the middle of the round.

Q. What was your mindset kind of coming into the round? Did you feel aggressive or just kind of see what the conditions kind of gave you?

CAMERON YOUNG: A little bit of both. I think it was a day where you had to wonder what you were going to get weather wise. It was freezing this morning. If it had stayed like that, I'm sure it would have played way harder. But as soon as we got out there and it wasn't cold and it wasn't real windy, I mean, we kind of -- we were relatively conservative off the tee I feel like just because being in the fairway, you could stop it anywhere. And then from when we did hit the fairway, we were very aggressive, which I think we had to be.

Q. We're a little over halfway through the season as a whole here. How would you kind of assess your rookie year this year so far?

CAMERON YOUNG: I think I've done okay. I think I'm getting better. I think the spaces between when I played well are getting smaller, I think I'm becoming more consistent. I think overall I've done a pretty good job of focusing on what I do and how I do it and just trying to improve that. And I've come close to winning a few times, so hopefully it will be the other way around at some point and I'll be having a different conversation.

Q. What's maybe the biggest thing you've learned that you feel might help you get across that threshold and pick up your first victory?

CAMERON YOUNG: I think just given that I've been close a few times and seeing the mistakes I've made just makes it seem really possible to me to win. I don't even know, I've probably made seven bogeys from the fairway with wedges this week and I was like minus 4 on the greens on Friday, so I think it just shows that I can win if everything comes together at the right time.
