

ROUND 3 QUOTES
October 22, 2023

HARRISON FRAZAR (-11, won 1st playoff hole)

Q. Emotional for you.

HARRISON FRAZAR: It's been a long time, long time coming. You think your career's over and, you know, through faith and through friends and through people who believe in you, you know, you decide to pick it up again because you feel like there's a void. And the void is this: The void is competing, the void is missing that win. It's the nerves, it's all the stuff. It's scary, but it's fun. You can never replace it.

So yeah, it's emotional. You just don't know if you're ever going to get there again, and when you do, it feels good.

Q. And how much more do you appreciate it because of everything you've been through?

HARRISON FRAZAR: I think I always appreciated it. It takes a lot of work, but yeah, this is going to sink in at some point tonight, and probably when I get on my phone and call my parents, my wife and my kids and everybody else, yeah, it's going to hit.

It means a lot. It means a lot to have a chance. At 52 years old, to continue to play your sport and to apply your trade, other athletes can't do that.

Yeah, I think you appreciate the opportunity more than anything else.

Q. You would not have even been here if you weren't a playoff caliber golfer on this tour this year, but how good did you feel about your game coming in, and did you think this was possible when you teed off Friday?

HARRISON FRAZAR: Yeah, I felt really good about my game for the last couple of months. We just had a lot of stuff going on at home and a lot of -- just some stuff, right? So life gets in the way at times.

Tried to clear the path for the last couple weeks so I could focus on this. I worked on a variety of different things over the last couple weeks. We talked about attitude, we talked about patience, we worked on putting, on wedges, and to see them actually play out and things to go your way feels really good.
